

About Us

Glenn & Pamela Bateman opened Center Point Pond in 1996. The pond, originally dug in the early 1950's by the James Bateman family, was used as a water hole for livestock. It was quickly expanded with the Bateman children having memories of swimming, fishing, boating, and skating at the pond. In 1992, Glenn shared his vision of a fishing pond with Pamela on one of their first dates as he quickly caught a large mouth bass. Today, the pond is open to the public for fishing. Thousands of children, many with special needs, have experienced fishing for the first time. The pond also plays host to adults as well as senior groups from local retirement communities.

When Glenn is not teaching children fishing and pond ecology, he is advising about ponds & has installed water features into hundreds of backyards in the Delaware Valley.
